Academic Administrative Positions – Rutgers University

Dean of Social and Behavioral Sciences, 2015-present

Academic area dean reporting directly to the Executive Dean of the School of Arts and Sciences (SAS) with supervisory responsibility for nine departments, 200 full time faculty (170 tenure track), and an annual budget of $185M. Key duties include advising the Executive Dean on all academic matters, budgetary review and implementation, personnel management (hiring, appointments and promotion, retentions, retirements, merit pay, leave authorizations), instructional oversight, faculty and staff professional development, strategic planning and decision-making, and special projects.

Key accomplishments:

- Coordinated new faculty hiring in the Social and Behavioral Sciences (SBS); successfully recruited 25 new tenure-track faculty, including 16 from underrepresented groups; retained six faculty targeted by other universities for external hires; three searches pending.
- Managed 31 appointment and promotion cases at all ranks; arranged 13 retirements.
- Launched several professional development initiatives for SBS faculty: funded six junior scholar workshops for assistant professors; supported five faculty who participated in diversity “boot camps” and “Women in Science” leadership training sessions.
- Inaugurated annual Dean’s Distinguished Lectureships in each of nine units (Africana Studies, Anthropology, Criminal Justice, Economics, Geography, Latino and Caribbean Studies, Political Science, Psychology, Sociology).
- Created “A World of Difference” funding initiative for SBS co-curricular programs dedicated to the study of social, cultural, and political-economic difference and inequality.
- Assisted Executive Dean and administrative staff with the roll-out of Responsibility Center Management budgets to SBS departments.
- Coordinated departmental Strategic Planning process.

- Recruited and trained Director of Administration, a new senior level administrative staff person with comprehensive oversight responsibilities in the SBS area.
- Represented School on advisory boards organized by the Vice President for International Programs, the Vice Chancellor for Research and Innovation, and the School of Graduate Studies Senior Associate Dean for Academic Affairs.
- Co-organized strategic planning initiative to “Rethink International/Area Studies.”

Chair, Department of Geography, 2011-2015

Chief academic and administrative officer for department with nine faculty FTEs, four staff members, 50 graduate students (PhD and MS/MA in Geography), 70 undergraduate majors (BA in Geography), and 50 undergraduate minors (Geography; Environmental Studies; and International and Global Studies).

Key accomplishments:

- Launched two new degrees: Minor in International and Global Studies; Minor in Environmental Studies; initiated process to establish a Major in Environmental Studies (currently under review).
- Recruited and mentored new Graduate Director, two Undergraduate Directors, and successor as Department Chair; hired and trained new departmental Administrative Assistant and Business Managers (both business managers subsequently promoted within the university).
- Revamped departmental computing facility to enhance teaching and research capabilities: raised $90K in competitive funding to replace and enhance 70 workstations with high-end graphic capabilities suitable for geographic information system (GIS) and remote sensing instruction and analysis.
- Established new undergraduate and physical geography research labs.
- Integrated over a dozen Geography courses into the School of Arts and Sciences core curriculum; designed and coordinated curriculum and course assessment procedures.
- Launched sequence of on-line and hybrid courses in the major.
- Created new graduate student awards for summer travel and excellence in research.
- Led effort to reconfigure curriculum in response to new school-wide minimum course size standards.
- Co-organized school-wide departmental chairs caucus; nominated by fellow chairs to become Social and Behavioral Sciences Dean.

Graduate Program Director, Department of Geography, 2002-2005

Academic coordinator for graduate program with 35 faculty members and 50 students pursuing Master’s and PhD degrees in Geography. Responsible for recruitment, academic and professional training, and tracking of student progress and out-placement.

Key accomplishments:

- Revised Graduate Student Handbook.
- Streamlined Admissions and Funding Application Review process.
- Redesigned required course sequence for Master’s and PhD students.
- Established system for closer monitoring of student progress toward degree completion.
- Recruited several new program faculty members from cognate subfields in Urban Planning, Anthropology, Human Ecology, and Sociology.
- Negotiated the program’s involvement in new Graduate Certificate Program in Geographic Information Science.
- Established departmental Graduate Teaching Excellence Award to recognize the contributions of department Teaching Assistants.
- Designed and implemented professional development workshops devoted to the academic job search and delivering effective academic conference presentations.

Director (founding), Center for African Studies, 1998-2001

Director of interdisciplinary area studies unit with 30 members and an average annual budget of roughly $150,000. Responsible for strategic planning, fund-raising, and all administrative functions including budgeting, procurement, event coordination and personnel supervision at the Center.

Key accomplishments:

- Selected by colleagues to spearhead an effort to convert faculty-led African Studies Coordinating Committee into a formally recognized Center for African Studies.
- Established basic internal governance structure for the Center, including by-laws and standing committees; recruited and trained Assistant Director.
- Wrote grant proposals resulting in $450,000 in competitive funding from the US Department of Education (Title VI Undergraduate International Studies and Foreign Language Program) and the Ford Foundation (Crossing Borders: Rethinking Area Studies Program); used this success to leverage an additional $120,000 in competitive internal funds.
- Devised strategy to “colonize” the university on behalf of African Studies through joint programming initiatives centered on specific annual themes (program partner indicated in parentheses): Human Rights (Law School), Distinguished African Women (Institute for Research on Women; Women’s Studies Program); Science of/in Africa (School of Environmental and Biological Sciences); Urban Transitions (Bloustein School of Urban Planning); and Contemporary African Fine Art (Mason Gross School of the Arts). Hosted some seventy visiting scholars in conjunction with these initiatives over a four-year period.
- Tripled the size of the Center’s membership, which is now drawn from roughly twenty different units on three campuses (New Brunswick, Newark and Camden).
- Created “Africa Across the Curriculum” program to provide seed funding for the establishment of ten new African Studies courses and six new African Studies course modules in fourteen different academic units.
- Established student writing competitions; funded undergraduate delegations to the Model Organization of African Unity [now the Model African Union] and Africa-related internships at the United Nations; created travel grant program for graduate students to attend scholarly conferences or conduct dissertation research reconnaissance trips to field sites.

Other Leadership Positions

Member, Board of Directors, African Studies Association, 2009-2012

Board member serving scholarly association with approximately 3000 members world-wide, an annual operating budget of roughly $600,000, and administrative Secretariat staff of four.

Key accomplishments:

- Elected to three-year term by ASA membership.
- Selected by Board President to Chair the Board’s Finance Committee and serve as Member of its Executive Committee.
- Jointly responsible with fellow board members and the ASA Secretariat staff for organizing annual membership conferences, publishing two journals, and coordinating relations between the Association and two dozen affiliated specialty interest groups.
- Conducted audit of Association accounts; assisted with replacement, recruitment and reorganization of Secretariat staff, and renegotiation of annual meeting hotel and publication contracts, which in turn reversed the Association’s substantial operating deficit.

Food Production Specialist/Program Manager, Save the Children Federation, The Gambia, 1986-1988

Senior staff member supervising ten extension agents and coordinating food production, environmental stabilization and water supply sectors for integrated rural development program serving twenty-five communities; wrote successful fund-raising proposals totaling $225,000 for projects in cereal production (adaptive seed production and strategic grain storage), small-scale horticulture (enhancement grants for wells and fences), and environmental education (afforestation of school grounds).

Program Analyst, U.S. Environmental Protection Agency, Washington, D.C., 1985-1986

In-house consultant on evaluating special EPA regulatory projects concerning natural radon gas hazards and leaking underground petroleum storage tanks

Director, Peace Corps/The Gambia, Health and Rural Cooperatives Extension Training, 1983

Training consultant supervising staff of fifteen technical, cross-cultural, language and extension trainers; directed immersive, village-based pre-service training curriculum for 20 Peace Corps Volunteers; ten weeks.

Consultant, Agricultural Extension Training, A.L. Nellum & Associates, Washington, D.C., 1982

Training coordinator for Kenya, Mauritania, and Thailand Peace Corps programs; designed and delivered curriculum focused on rural development, community analysis, and cross-cultural and adult learning theory; fourteen weeks.

Coordinator, Extension Training, Ministry of Agriculture/Peace Corps, Inland Valley Rice Production Program, Pre-service training, Kalangba, Sierra Leone, 1980

Lead trainer for curriculum in adult learning theory and village-based practical extension exercises; ten weeks.

Extension Agent, Ministry of Agriculture/Peace Corps, Sierra Leone, 1978-80:

Volunteer administrator for United Nations Food and Agriculture Organization-sponsored development project in five villages; supervised a staff of four field assistants in projects involving gravity-fed irrigation system design and construction and rice technology extension; secondary emphasis on water supply and sanitation.
