Welcome new faculty

- ◆ Andrea Marston joins the Geography department as an Assistant Professor following the completion of her PhD from the University of California, Berkeley. She has a BA from Duke University and an MA in Geography from the University of British Columbia. Andrea's research focuses on the material politics of resource extraction. Working at the intersection of political economy, science and technology studies, and the cultural politics of nature, she explores the relationship between the grounded practices of resource extraction and the reproduction of racialized, colonial, and gendered national politics.
- ◆ Willie J. Wright joins the Geography department as an Assistant Professor, having previously taught at Florida State University. He is jointly appointed in the Department of Africana Studies. Willie completed his PhD from the University of North Carolina - Chapel Hill, before which he earned an MA in Pan-African Studies from the University of Louisville and a BA from the University of Houston. An urban and political geographer whose scholarship lies at the intersection of Geography and Black Studies, Willie has carried out extensive field and archival research in Detroit, Michigan and Jackson, Mississippi. He has a broad interest in the study of urban geographies, specifically the historical development of American suburbs and majority Black municipalities through processes of racialized uneven development.
