

INTIMATE TOXICITIES:

May 6-7, 2021
12th MaGrann Conference
Technoscience,
Material Natures,
& Environmental Justice

Department of Geography,
Rutgers University

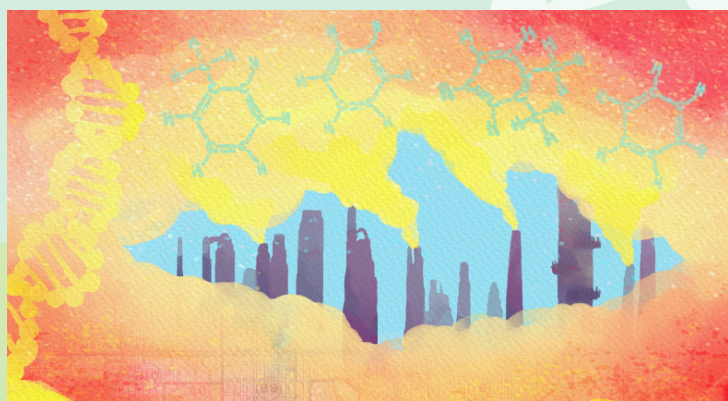

RUTGERS

School of Arts and Sciences

INTIMATE TOXICITIES: Technoscience, Material Natures, & Environmental Justice

The 2021 MaGrann conference examines the intimate entanglements of human and nonhuman natures in the context of everyday exposures to toxins in air, water, food, soil, and infrastructure. Working at the intersection between nature, science, and justice, participants seek to rethink what politics can look like in the aftermath of embodied and place-based contamination.

Hosted by the Department of Geography and co-sponsored by Rutgers Global, the Department of Anthropology, and the Center for Latin American Studies

WEBSITE:

<http://sites.rutgers.edu/magrann-conference-2021/>

REGISTER HERE:

<https://rutgers.zoom.us/meeting/register/tJcocOuggqz8vHtW8YzBNtSiSqlmLooOhQt>

SCHEDULE

THURSDAY, MAY 6TH

2:00pm-7:00pm EDT

Intimate Exposures:

CNE Corbin, Nick Shapiro,
Jessica Worl

Toxic Expertise:

Kessie Alexandre, Shannon Cram,
Adam Romero

Keynote 1: Michelle Murphy

FRIDAY, MAY 7TH

1:00pm-7:30pm EDT

Community Calculations:

Kai Bosworth, Lindsey Dillon,
Sara Ann Wylie

Embodied Exposures:

Asher Ghertner, Gabriela Valdivia,
Pavithra Vasudevan

Contaminated Solidarities:

Rosalind Fredericks, Andrea Marston,
Sebastián Ureta

Keynote 2: Elizabeth Povinelli

Artwork by Kae Yamane